A Big Water-Spont at Longview-Thir-teen Inches of Water Fall in Twelve Minutes.

The Red River on the Greatest Boom Known for Years-Little Damage Reported to Orops.

A WATER SPOUT. SEE

LONGVIEW, TEX., June 25 .- A water-spout broke overour city yesterday afternoon, thirteen inches of water falling in twelve minutes. The street railway was submerged, causing a large washout. The water ran through a dwelling standing thirty feet from a brook, causing much damage to the furniture. Teague's run raised six feet higher than ever before known, the waters of which tore loose the large dam belonging to the different planing mill companies at the junc-tion. Everywhere for a short distance from the city fence-rails and other de-bris lay scattered around; a mile west town numbers of fish from four to eight inches long lay promiscuously about left by the spout at its first breaking. The loss to property has not been much outside of the time necessary to repair the damage,

The jury, after being out forty-eight hours, orought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs for $3500. The piaintiffs for $3500. The suit was brought more than a year ago, the claim of the plaintiffs amounting to $25,000. Soon after the suit was filed a trial was had, in which the jury awarded a verdict for $4300 in favor of the plaintiff. Being diseatis-fied with this, the latter sought and were granted a new trial, the one com-ing up at this term, and came out at the second "mile post" $500 worse off than at the first trial. To add to their misfortune, it now seems the railroad has caught the inspiration and asks the court for a new trial, "allesamee" as the plaintiffs did the last time. This the court, however, has not as yet acted upon.

A negro man and his wife living near town in a neighborhood of white people suddenly bethought themselves lately of what a good thing "Sumner's swivel rights bill" was when reduced to practice. An interesting and important decision was rendered in the court of appeals yesterday evening, the Crad-dock case from Dallas. The effect of it was to give priority to a special law where it conflicts with a general law. The application was in sustaining the Sunday law provisions of the Dallas city charter over the general statutes. This will give city councils the power to make such Sunday regulations as they choose, conforming of course to their charters.
